Personal emails work better to tell Vodafone NO before the exchange of contracts!

“Our green roof is a haven” – help save our ducks
 Tweet: #SOD #saveourducks

What to say? Here are some suggestions:

- We cannot find any phone mast inside Hackney’s Regents Canal Conservation Area, we want to keep it that way, we love our canal side location. This installation will set a dangerous precedent for Hackney’s Regents Canal Conservation Area. The Canal has been carefully managed and considerate to the Conservation Area given the type of, and planning permissions granted so far. Buildings adjacent to the canal are very sympathetic to the area and it is a pleasant environment has been created along the canal for the public to enjoy.
- You will see the masts from the canal side (see below) and this is just the beginning! Once installed, Vodafone have a legal requirement to sell space to other providers, to grow this eyesore.
- We love our green roof (see picture above) it’s a haven for birds, insects, animals and plants, this installation will damage this inner city habitat. The 12 phone masts, 2 microwaves dishes and 6 equipment cabinets to be installed can only be done by getting access across the green roof.
- Vodafone engineers and other casing wear and tear, on-going damage, as well as increased security risk. Vodafone don’t want to pay anything to the maintenance costs. None of the £13,000 profit will be used to meet any ongoing building maintenance costs.
- Other buildings in the area have refused to install a masts. Hackney Council will not allow masts on their own buildings- yet 25% of our residents are Hackney council tenants.
- Vodafone have targeted Angel Wharf without seriously looking elsewhere. Vodafone have a legal obligation to consult but no consultation with the local residents has been carried out.

Tell them that all proposals will be met with a strong resistance, by working together, we can show that we don’t want these masts and keep our conservation area free of masts.

↑ The roof would look this this – do you want that?

← This is the planned initial view from the canal, it is higher than one storey
